

Council Passes Ordinance Over Harris Veto

By Paul Carlson
STROUDSBURG Borough Council last night became embroiled in a bit of a Donnybrook Fair as it adopted the council-manager system of government over the veto of Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris.

On two occasions, Council President Edward R. Lawson had to ask that comment be limited to the ordinance itself — and not to personalities or politics. In the second instance, Lawson warned he would adjourn the meeting if the request was not honored.

The controversy centered around councilman Edward Doran and the mayor.

Although council did not name a manager last night, it anticipated that the appointment will go to Borough Secretary Harold Snyder.

The ordinance will become effective upon advertisement. However, a borough resident may file an exception within 30 days.

In his veto message, Burgess Harris listed six reasons why he was opposed to the system. Then, at the suggestion of Councilman J. Albert Groner, the lawmakers sought to reply to each of these points.

To begin with, Harris said, the plan involves "a useless expenditure of the taxpayers' money — paying two salaries to get one job done, the salary of the council and the salary of the manager."

In reply, however, Lawson pointed out that the council does not plan to hire any additional help. Moreover, council expects to pay the manager the same figure currently paid to the borough secretary.

Secondly, Harris charged the lawmakers were "violating your oaths of office and, at the same time, you are admitting you are incompetent in your duty as elected officials of the borough."

To this, Borough Solicitor George T. Robinson replied that council was not delegating any of its legislative powers to the manager. Moreover, the borough secretary quoted a letter from the State Department of Internal Affairs which noted that the manager merely carries out the policies of the council.

Harris' third objection was that he was "100 percent against any scheme of buck-passing your responsibility to the voters of the borough."

"For 24 years up here the borough has come a long way in its civic duties up here in a well-planned program of streets and sewer improvements without a high priced manager," the veto message said.

The mayor then pointed out that of some 900 boroughs in the State less than 10 percent have adopted the council-manager plan.

However, Snyder replied that 60 to 70 percent of the 900 boroughs have populations of less than 1,000. In such communities, he indicated, the system would not be feasible.

The veto message also noted that "appointive officers run the sewer authority and the water authority."

"In these two set-ups, the people have no voice except to pay the bills, regardless of what it costs," charged Harris. "I am for a democratic form of municipal government where the people have something to say."

In conclusion, the mayor recommended: "Why not let the voters decide in a special election whether they want a manager or not?"

"What could be a more democratic way to handle it?" he asked.

However, the solicitor observed there is no provision in the Borough Code for a referendum in such matters. Rather, the law allows council to determine whether it is feasible to appoint a manager.

No sooner had the mayor finished his veto message than did Councilman Doran start to criticize Harris for statements attributed to him in published stories Wednesday. Both he and Councilman Groner asked him to apologize to the borough secretary.

It was later explained that the councilman had referred to the fact that Harris had stated that "it takes knowledge, experience and know-how to make a successful borough manager," which is not acquired "by hammering a typewriter or keeping a ledger."

Doran also charged that the mayor's veto message "sounds like the kick-off for the 1957 mayor's election."

At this point, the council president warned that politics should be kept out of the discussion.

However, Harris retorted: "I'm not worried about that."

"The people decided for me six times," he declared. "And if I decide to turn, they'll do it again."

Then, turning to Doran, he added: "If you don't believe it, just try it."

The latter comment was taken to mean that Harris was inviting Doran to oppose him in the forthcoming race.

But the council president hammered for order again. "Either stop this," warned Lawson, "or I'm going to adjourn the meeting."

Doran quickly moved that the ordinance be adopted over the veto. It was then seconded by Councilman Sam Lee.

Then the roll call vote was taken: Doran, "Yes"; Lawson, "Yes"; Lee, "Yes"; Warner, "Yes"; Groner, "Yes."

Later, Burgess Harris reported that the State Department of Forests and Waters will spend some $1,600,000 in flood protection projects on Broadheads, Michaels and Pocono Creeks.

Harris said the department would advertise for bids on the first phase about Feb. 15.

Council also took the following

- other actions:
- 1—Appointed Mrs. T. Manning Curtis to a five-year term on the Board of Health to fill a vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Mrs. Shirley D. Cummings.
 - 2—Distributed $77,000 additional fire insurance coverage on the Municipal Building between the Small, Dreher, Heberling and Coleman insurance agencies.
 - 3—Granted the request of Richard F. Phillips to cut the curb for construction of a driveway at his home at 611 Queen St.
 - 4—Authorized the borough secretary to advertise for bids for a new police car, bids to be taken at the March 6th council meeting.
 - 5—Authorized the loan of $10,000 from the First Stroudsburg National Bank to pay the necessary operating expenses of the borough.

HISTORY-MAKING HOP FOR HAAS—Horatio W. Haas, National Commander of the Society of the 28th Division, and these three men who are also officials in the organization, left Stroudsburg yesterday for a trip to Los Angeles. In that city Haas will install officers for the California Department of the Society which now has departments in all states of the union. With Haas in photo are: Jacob H. Patches, Lancaster, eastern vice commander; Angelo Dellaria, Stroudsburg, Post 56 commander and Harlan Biggs Jr., Stroudsburg, national aide. Haas is first Monroe County man ever to hold national society presidency; will be first national officer to install departmental officials in West Coast region.

Reno's Shopping District Quiet Following Explosions

RENO, Nev., Feb. 6 (AP)—Reno's downtown shopping district was silent and empty today as experts sought assurance that there is no chance of a repeat of yesterday's big gas explosion.

Banks, stores, hotels and dozens of other businesses were shut down over a four-block area in response to numerous reports of gas odors.

The smell of propane gas led utility company trouble shooters and firemen to evacuate the First and Sierra street area yesterday minutes before three explosions and subsequent fires ruined five buildings.

Because of the brief advance warning, the death toll was held down. Only two persons are known to be dead. More than 40 others were treated at hospitals, but only three suffered critical injuries.

Damage now is expected to run to more than three million dollars.

Only the fashionable Mapes Hotel—the city's largest—remained open in the roped-off district. It had only a handful of guests and a skeleton crew of employees. Anyone leaving was not permitted to return.

The Mapes Casino was the only gambling house in the affected district. The city's concentration of gambling is north of Second street on Virginia and Center streets.

A high Republican source, who asked not to be identified, said Wood was seeking support among House GOP members for the post held by the late William E. Habischaw, Harrisburg.

PUC Orders Plans Drawn For Viaduct

Ike Raises Possibility Of Controls

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower raised today a possibility of government controls to hold the line against inflation and federal intervention to assure Europe enough oil.

In effect, Eisenhower seemed to be saying that if private enterprise doesn't act, government will.

What steps he has in mind, the President didn't say. He emphasized at his news conference that he hoped to avoid government intervention. He has repeatedly criticized Democrats as being too prone to have the government step into business, and has stated that his administration lifted controls they affixed to the American economy.

Oil

The subject of oil curled in big black question marks over the news conference.

A reporter reminded the President that in two messages to Congress he had called on business and labor to police the profit and wage fields to help meet inflationary threats. The question was whether price increases put into effect by the oil industry were justified. There have been complaints within and to Congress that the industry has used the shortage of oil in Europe, following the shutting off of Middle East supplies, as an excuse for jacking up oil and gasoline prices.

Eisenhower said that by no manner of means was he asking business and labor to be altruistic when he stated they must discharge their responsibilities in conformity with needs of the nation.

"Their own long-term good is involved," he said, "and I am asking them merely to act as enlightened Americans."

"Now, unless this happens, the United States then has to move in more firmly with so-called controls of some kind, and when we begin to control prices and allocations and wages, and all the rest, then it is not the America we know."

Sometimes smiling, sometimes serious, Eisenhower wove his way nimbly through all sorts of questions. Garbed in brown, including a figured brown tie with splashes of turquoise, the chief executive appeared to enjoy the mental and verbal exercise.

From there, the conference skipped around to these additional topics:

Israel — Eisenhower said he personally believes that Israel has "a decent respect for the opinion of mankind, and I believe that she will withdraw her forces" from Egypt, in compliance with a United Nations resolution. Eisenhower didn't say whether the United States is prepared to join in any use of economic sanctions if Israel refuses. He merely remarked that, "We are committed to the support of the United Nations."

Saud — As a result of the state visit to this country by King Saud of Saudi Arabia, the President said he believes "much of the underbrush of misunderstanding" has been cleared away and "progress in keeping a peaceful and maybe even eventually a united Mideast has been advanced."

No Rapid Shortway Action Expected

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6 (AP)—Speaker Helm (R—Armstrong) said tonight that no action was planned "in the immediate future" on contrasting resolutions asking the House to take a position on the proposed Keystone Shortway.

"We have two ideas before us right now and they require study," he told a newsmen, "I don't anticipate any action in the immediate future."

In any event, Helm added, the Republican party would adopt no official policy on the proposed 291-mile free highway between Sharon and Stroudsburg.

Custody

The House Rules Committee, on which Helm sits as an influential figure, has custody of two separate GOP-sponsored resolutions concerning the Shortway plan with a proposal to expand construction of U.S. Route 6 across northern Pennsylvania.

One resolution, submitted yesterday by four Republicans, would have the House notify the governor, highways secretary and U.S. Bureau of Public Roads that the House recommends construction of the Sharon to Stroudsburg superhighway.

The other, introduced last week, also by four Republicans, would have the House notify the same officials that the House deprecates the official state administration recommendation that the Shortway be included in the federal interstate program.

The latter calls building the Shortway "unreasonable discrimination against the Northern Tier counties" and "demands action by the General Assembly to save irreparable damage to this important region."

At Williamsport, Z. H. Confair, general chairman of the Keystone Shortway Assn., called on the Republican-controlled Rules Committee to bottle up the resolution opposing the Shortway.

Reasoning

"Even letting the anti-Shortway resolution out of committee might react against the (Republican) party," said Confair. "It would look as though the Republican party is against the Shortway. We know this is not true."

He said the Shortway proposal was sanctioned in the platforms of both gubernatorial candidates in 1954, and therefore has the endorsement of both parties.

At Bradford, Harry G. Garvin, chairman of the "Save Route 6 Committee" denied that the Shortway proposal was endorsed by both parties in the 1954 gubernatorial campaign. He added: "It is the committee's (Route 6) understanding that any reference to the Keystone route in the 1954 gubernatorial campaign was in contemplation of legislation actually passed in 1955 authorizing the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to build the route as part of the Pennsylvania toll turnpike system."

"To the knowledge of the committee there has been no official declaration by either party endorsing the Keystone Shortway as part of the federal interstate (highways) system."

Estimate Of Cost High On Request

THE PUBLIC Utility Commission yesterday ordered first steps toward possible reconstruction of the railroad viaduct at Analomink.

In an action taken yesterday morning, the PUC directed the State Highways Department to ready plans estimating cost of rebuilding the eight-span traffic viaduct which was destroyed by the August, 1955 flood.

The viaduct was the center of controversy during this past year when the PUC began to hold local hearings on whether to rebuild the viaduct at its former location.

Reconstruction at the Analomink site was opposed by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. The viaduct carries Route 90 traffic over Lackawanna rail lines between Pinebrook Camp and Analomink.

In arguing their case before the PUC, the railroad's attorneys declared that the structure should be rebuilt closer to Stroudsburg at a point near Gravel Place Crossing.

This theory was opposed strongly by most local officials and by residents of Stroud Township, whose traffic needs are served directly by the viaduct in its old location since it serves as a connecting link between Stroudsburg and Analomink.

The railroad also maintained that none of the construction cost of replacing the viaduct should be placed upon the Lackawanna. Under terms of the original PUC order to construct the span years ago the railway shouldered the cost for the span itself and the State paid for approaches.

Attorneys for the railroad argued that the intent of the former order could no longer be applied since a natural disaster had destroyed the original span.

In issued directions to the Highways Department yesterday to total estimated costs, the PUC gave no indication of a decision on the replacement site for the viaduct or when that final decision would be made.

Since the gigantic traffic span collapsed in raging flood waters August 18, 1955, traffic has been detoured through Stokes Mill and Gravel Place sections and through East Stroudsburg.

Yesterday's action by the PUC was the first public indication of progress in the viaduct controversy since a hearing in Stroudsburg five months ago.

Britain Studies Adoption Of U.S. Weapons

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Britain is studying a plan to adopt certain American weapons, with the emphasis apparently on guided missiles.

Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons today the move to add new arms to Britain's arsenal is under examination by government leaders and service staffs in both London and Washington.

He declined to go into detail, but there was widespread speculation Britain particularly wants guided missiles.

The United States is pressing development of these electronically controlled projectiles as a deterrent to atomic age warfare.

Commons

Sandys told Commons that Britain's determination to cut defense expenditures met sympathetic understanding from American leaders during his recent conferences in Washington. He returned to Britain Sunday.

"We reviewed the arrangements previously made for collaboration between the United States and Britain in military research and development, with particular reference to guided rockets," he said.

"It was agreed that both countries have derived considerable benefit from this cooperation and we decided to extend still further our joint work."

"We discussed a possible scheme for the adoption by Britain of certain American weapons, and this is now being examined by the two governments and their service staffs."

Israel Requests Hammarskjold To Inquire If Egypt Will Refrain From Belligerent Acts

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—Israel announced today it has asked Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to inquire whether Egypt will refrain from belligerent acts upon the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egypt.

The request was contained in a three-point proposal handed Monday to Hammarskjold by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban. Hammarskjold had asked Eban when Israel would comply with Assembly resolutions to evacuate all of Egypt.

Reaction

Israel is awaiting Egypt's reaction. She is standing firm on her demand for guarantees before yielding the Sharm el Sheikh area on the Gulf of Aqaba and before even considering an arrangement on the Gaza Strip.

These disclosures were made as Egypt argued for an early Assembly meeting to take up the continued presence of Israeli troops in the Sharm el Sheikh and the Gaza Strip.

Meanwhile, the question of the Suez Canal came to the front. Sir Person Dixon of Britain, and Guillaume Georges, First of France, went to Hammarskjold with a request for an early resumption of conferences looking toward a settlement. The Canal, blocked in the invasion of Egypt by Britain and France last fall, is expected to be cleared for light shipping by March.

The U.S. delegation, committed by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to a hope that Israel will withdraw, was vigorously opposing efforts to convene the Assembly tomorrow or later this week. U.S. sources said a debate now would only aggravate the already tense situation and even might hinder Hammarskjold's efforts to end the impasse.

Spokesman

An Israeli spokesman announced that Eban in the conference with Hammarskjold submitted these main points:

"1. A declaration that 'Israel will cooperate with any United Nations effort designed to establish peace in the area, based on the principles of the United Nations Charter.'"

"2. A request to the secretary general to ask the government of Egypt whether it agrees to the mutual and full abstention from belligerent acts, by air, land and sea, on the withdrawal of Israeli troops."

"3. A reference to the Sharm el Sheikh area, and the related question of measures designed to prevent interference with free navigation in the Straits of Tiran, and in the Gulf of Aqaba."

Committee Extends Tax On Business

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee headed an administration plea against deficit financing today and voted to extend business taxes for another year at their present 30-billion-dollar level.

Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) reported the vote was "very quick and sweet."

The extension was approved by a voice vote at a closed session of the committee, Cooper said. He added there were no amendments offered and "I didn't hear but one vote" against continuing the present rates—first applied during the Korean War.

The corporation income tax is now 52 per cent—a 30 percent normal tax, and 22 percent surtax on income over $25,000. Unless Congress acts, the rate would drop to 47 percent April 1. Officials estimate this would mean a revenue loss of two billion dollars a year.

The officials estimate that another billion would be lost without extension of present excise rates on whisky, tobacco and automobiles. These rates also would be extended by the bill the committee approved today.

"After two years of balanced budgets as a result of the combined hard work of the Congress and the administration," Humphrey said, "it would be inexcusable to slip back into deficit financing for next year."

Psychiatrist Rules Disaster Doesn't Speed Mental Ills

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Army's top psychiatrist today said disasters such as tornadoes, hurricanes or atomic bombings cause no immediate increase in big mental illnesses.

At a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons, Col. Albert J. Glass said the blitz over London and the nuclear attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki did not increase the number of mental patients in England and Japan.

He added the same was true for civilian disasters, like the chemical explosion at Texas City, April 16, 1947, that killed 512 persons.

Dr. Glass, chief of neurology and psychiatry in the surgeon general's office, added that panic also was a problem rarely faced by people during a disaster. He made his remarks in a press conference before addressing the college's meeting.

Panic

The only time panic occurs, the officer said, is when an escape route is blocked. Dr. Glass defined panic as "frantic, irresponsible, unreasoning behavior." He said when a person tries to escape by running he is not in panic although he may be running in the wrong direction.

In studies of World War II bombings, troops in action, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and data on civilian disasters supplied by the National Research Council, Dr. Glass said two reactions to disaster had been discovered.

One was what Dr. Glass termed "temporary emotional disruption." The person is dazed, understands little, wanders aimlessly and can not help himself or anyone else. Dr. Glass described this as similar to the moment when someone is informed that a close relative has died.

The colonel said this reaction lasts anywhere from one second to 15 or more minutes.

Investigation Ends

RISHOP, Va., Feb. 6 (AP)—The chief of the West Virginia Mine Bureau today completed this underground investigation of Monday's gas explosion which snuffed out 37 lives here at a major Virginia-West Virginia coal mine and said a hearing into the tragedy would be convened tomorrow.

Yosko Seeks Repeal Of Sales Tax

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Republican head of the Senate Finance Committee today predicted the Legislature would adopt a tax program by late April or early May to balance Gov. Leader's record budget for the 1957-59 biennium.

Sen. Kessler (Lancaster) based his prediction on what he said was a "perceptive atmosphere" among lawmakers faced with the task of raising 108 million dollars in new taxes to balance Leader's proposed $1,600,000,000 general fund budget.

Request

Leader asked for $108,612,000 in new taxes to balance the general fund requests which are part of an overall budget of more than 2 billion dollars.

Coincidentally, Sen. Yosko (D-Northampton) asked the Senate to repeal the sales tax and enact in its place a levy "based on the ability to pay."

Although he did not name any specific tax to replace the 3 percent sales levy, Yosko called for a tax that would "assure that every dollar assessed would go into the state treasury and not as is the case now."

Yosko's bill calling for a tax repeal was submitted for committee study but Republicans are expected to ignore it.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6 (AP)—The House today passed 209-0 a bill that would insure seven new weight classifications in the law regulating the license registration of trucks.

Incidentally, Sen. Yosko (D-Northampton) asked the Senate to repeal the sales tax and enact in its place a levy "based on the ability to pay."

Although he did not name any specific tax to replace the 3 percent sales levy, Yosko called for a tax that would "assure that every dollar assessed would go into the state treasury and not as is the case now."

Commission Orders Bell To Allow Use Of 'Hush-A-Phone'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today directed that American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its Bell System subsidiaries permit telephone subscribers to use the "Hush-A-Phone" and similar devices.

The commissioner acted in response to an order entered last November by the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

Challenge

The Hush-A-Phone Corp. of New York City had challenged in the courts telephone company regulations prohibiting "foreign attachments" on telephones. The court held that a telephone subscriber has a right to use his telephone "in ways which are privately beneficial without being publicly detrimental."

The Hush-A-Phone is a cup-like device which can be snapped on the telephone mouthpiece to give privacy to conversations and shut out surrounding noise.

FCC's directive gives the phone companies until April 1 to revise their published rules so as to remove the prohibition.

White Collar Workers Goal

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—The AFL-CIO announced plans today to shoot 120 organizers into a campaign to unionize some 14 million white collar workers.

The drive to organize store clerks, bank and insurance company employees, factory office help, and state, county and municipal government workers was approved by the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

The council wound up its 10-day winter meeting by authorizing the white collar campaign, by dealing with several hot interunion scraps, and issuing a crackdown on delays in merging rival AFL and CIO state and local organizations.

John W. Livingston, organizing director of the 15-million-member AFL-CIO, said about 80 of the AFL-CIO's 275-man regular organizing staff will be assigned exclusively to the white collar drive. He said 40 new organizers would be hired. The 120-man staff will be augmented by individual unions' own organizers.

Walter Offers Name For Atom Cruiser

WASHINGTON — A suggestion that the U. S. Navy call its new atomic-powered cruiser "City of Bethlehem" has been made by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), in whose district the steel-making city is located.

The cruiser, said Walter, will be a "symbol of two significant things: the tremendous industrial technical pre-eminence that underlies this country's strength, and the vast force of free labor and management that have made this pre-eminence possible."

Note

The congressman noted that the new cruiser is being built by the Bethlehem Steel Co., which he described as "one of the most important armories of American defense."

It is fitting that the company and the people of Bethlehem, Walter said, "should lead the country in the new era of nuclear power. From the earliest days of the Revolution they have provided the basic ingredients of our defense—ammunition for Washington's army; steel and iron and ships and guns ever since."

"During World War Two, Bethlehem Steel produced a total of 117 vessels, among them six aircraft carriers, a battleship, 50 light cruisers, over 100 destroyers, over 500 cargo transports."

In the light of these accomplishments, many suggestions have been made that the new atomic cruiser bear the name of the "City of Bethlehem." Certainly there can be no more appropriate expressions of our recognition of the city of Bethlehem's role in preserving our liberty and security. It is a name that will serve as an impressive calling card of America's continuing and growing prowess.

Cleveland, Strausser Combine To Introduce House Bill

Legislation Aimed At Bus Schedules

THE RUNNING fire of criticism against alleged violations of State traffic laws by bus companies got new fuel yesterday in Harrisburg with introduction of a resolution written by Monroe County Rep. H. L. Cleveland and Rep. Albert E. Strausser, R-Columbia.

Both men said their resolution was an outgrowth of a Jan. 29 bus-auto wreck on Effort Mountain which took the lives of five East Stroudsburg State Teachers College students.

Strausser said that the "principal reason" he is seeking, with Cleveland, a thorough study of Pennsylvania's traffic laws is because of the recent Monroe County accident.

The resolution, introduced yesterday, suggests that the Joint State Government Commission, a research arm of the General Assembly, be directed to study the traffic laws.

This study would cover particularly, their "practicality" with respect to large vehicles, the adequacy of penalties and enforcement difficulties.

If approved by the House and undertaken by the commission, the results of the study would be forwarded to the 1959 session of the Legislature.

Two of the students killed in the accident — Demetrius Speros-Marinis, 19, and McClellan P. Whitenight, 18 — were from Bloomsburg which is in Strausser's home county.

The general theme of the resolution was outlined to The Daily Record two days following the accident by Rep. Cleveland. He said at that time that he would "seek passage" of a bill requiring bus companies in Pennsylvania to operate on schedules which conform to State speed laws.

Cleveland was joined on Feb. 4 by Sen. Harold Flack, Dallas, in a demand for curtailment of bus company operations and scheduling. The current resolution would presumably have the support of Flack in the Senate.

Course In Law, Labor Popular

A SHORT course on "Labor and the Law" has proved so popular with local labor union members and the Central Labor Union that it will be given a return performance next month with new material.

The course began on Jan. 9 at the CLU under sponsorship of that organization and the Pennsylvania State University Extension Division. The instructor is Alfred Sumberg, associate professor of social studies at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

A total of 16 local labor unions have been taking part in the current course which ends on Feb. 27. It will be given again beginning March 6 and continuing through April 24 with Sumberg again serving as instructor.

Locals participating are: Electrical Workers, Pocketbook Workers, Printing, Pressmen, Bookbinders, Typographical Union, Boilermakers, Carpenters and Joiners, Pipefitters and Plumbers, International Association of Machinists, Ironworkers, Bricklayers and Masons, Painters and Decorators, Office Employees, Pennsylvania State Employment Service employees, Bartenders and Hotel Employees and Boot and Shoe Workers.

Registrations are now being taken for the March 6 through April 24 short course. Interested persons may register by contacting Stuart Pipher at Tannersville.

Reserve Unit To Open New Headquarters

OFFICIAL opening of new headquarters of M Company, 31st Infantry, 79th Division, will take place Monday, Feb. 18 in the new U. S. Army Reserve Sub-center on Sixth St. in Stroudsburg.

The general public is invited to attend. Officers hope that parents and friends of prospective enlistees will visit and inspect the facilities made available to the local unit by the commanding general of the Second Army.

The entire third floor of a former commercial building is being utilized by the local unit in all its functions and training for its mission as a heavy weapons company. Ample space and provisions are available for the company on the local level, officers said.

There is an office or orderly room where all command and administrative functions are initiated. This room contains desks for 1st Sgt. Dale Johnson or commanding officer Lt. Charles Wilkinsen.

Other officers in the company are the following:

Lt. George Miller and Lt. George Sopko whose offices adjoin the orderly room and who perform the function of planning and training with his staff.

Mess Sergeant

Across the hallway in the center Sgt. Earl Newhart, unit mess sergeant, uses full kitchen facilities to provide for unit needs, including a coffee break each drill night.

The company's quarters include a long meeting hall which also serves for large formations, inspections, movies and assembly. There are two smaller classrooms, a supply room and a large wall locker for each man in the unit.

On normal meeting nights there are usually classes in each of the two smaller classrooms while a third group convenes in the large assembly room for a viewing of combat films or demonstration.

Officers and non-coms in the unit offer qualified instruction in a wide variety of fields. Their backgrounds include college education, combat experience in World War Two or the Korean campaign and varied civilian experience.

The local company has won several awards since its beginning in Stroudsburg several years ago. Local officers believe that it may become one of the prize units in the entire reserve program if it continues at its present pace of expansion and achievement.

Highway Laws Increase Building

HARRISBURG, Feb. 6 (P) — The State Highways Department said today laws enacted by the last Legislature increased highway construction by Second Class townships last year.

Joseph J. Lawler, highways secretary, said the "home rule" bill had sparked more highway building by making the townships eligible for a "greater share" in the state's motor license fund.

Bangor Board Agrees To Borrow Funds

BANGOR — Borough school board members instructed Reimer Speer, the secretary, to borrow up to $50,000 for payment of current bills.

The loan was made necessary because, board members said, that State appropriations have not arrived on schedule.

The board said it was "extremely disturbed" about a letter it had received from Herbert Brian, assistant director of the Bureau of School District Organization, Department of Public Instruction, notifying members boards of the seven-district State Belt jointure that the present plan for construction of a joint junior-senior high school has not met with State approval.

Bangor board went on record instructing representatives to go to Harrisburg next week and investigate the matter fully. They asked that Bangor representatives on the seven-district joint board urge other board delegates to join in the trip.

The request will be conducted at a joint board meeting to be held on Monday. The meeting of the three-district "small" jointure was presided over by Donald Creighton, president.

This joint board voted to extend for a period of six weeks the adult driver training program at an estimated cost of $90. Extension was granted due to bad weather in the area recently which prevented instruction.

Dr. James Brusie, of the education committee, reported that a review of teachers' salaries will "probably be made in the near future."

The board placed Louis Guido, a teacher of business education, on a permanent professional status and approved tentatively a 190-day school calendar for 1957-58.

They also gave superintendent Donald B. Keat the sole authority to close school in event of bad weather.

Dog License Issue 600 Below Last January

COUNTY Treasurer Frank Weller announced yesterday that the total issue of dog licenses for January was about 600 below that of the same month a year ago.

At the same time, Weller reported that James F. Hazen, State dog law enforcement officer, visited his office Tuesday to obtain copies of licenses issued to date for comparison.

tee, was granted a request for a $1,450 appropriation to the athletic program.

Marvin DePamphilis, chairman of the building committee reported, that there were needed repairs amounting to $500 on the high school heating system. It has been in operation only one year.

The matter was placed in the hands of the property committee.

Board approved renting out the new cafeteria at a fee of $15 per night with stipulation that the kitchen may not be used by any lessee. At the same time the renter is required to pay janitors at the rate of $1.50 per hour for their services.

Hazen indicated that about Feb. 15 a general check up will be started for owners of unlicensed dogs. All persons found owning or harboring unlicensed dogs will be prosecuted without exception.

The minimum fine is $5 and costs, while the maximum fine is $100 and costs, or 30 days in jail or both, Hazen said.

"It is not the wish of the Bureau of Animal Industry or your local enforcement officer to make these prosecutions," he added, "and it is hoped that dog owners will take advantage of this warning and purchase their 1957 licenses at once."

Weller said residents may apply for the licenses by mail. They must give the breed, age, color and sex. Tags for females cost $2.10, while licenses for males and spayed dogs are $1.10. A stamped envelope or 3-cents postage must be included.

Temporary School Aid Merited Only If Local Districts Retain Control

Congress has before it President Eisenhower's request for two billion dollars to help communities faced with the urgency to build new schools.

In that this is supposed to be a temporary measure, the request has considerable merit. But once so-called emergency legislation gets on the books, it almost automatically takes on a permanent status in government. Logic, therefore, should dictate a go-slow policy toward this gigantic school subsidy program.

The problems that confront virtually all school districts are many. In the main, they call for heavy expenditures of public funds to keep pace with changing world conditions. Aid grants are an absolute necessity if some school districts are to furnish even the minimum educational needs.

Some of the problems faced are increased enrollments due to a rise in population, higher building costs, demands for raises in teachers' salaries, mounting operating expenses, limits on taxing and borrowing powers, requirements that must be met to qualify for state aid, and demands for expanded school curricula.

Where will the money come from to meet the growing needs for new and bigger schools? And what strings will be attached to the grants?

It is wishful thinking to assume that the two billion dollars the Federal Government hopes to parcel out to school districts in the next four years will come back to us intact. The amount of shrinkage will depend upon the size of the bureaucratic agency set up to handle the program.

And if the money is to be parceled out to the states for distribution, another handling charge will be exacted before the aid reaches its destination—the local school districts.

Also, the matter of control looms large in the picture. Will the local districts be obliged to spend the money as the state and federal bureaucrats dictate, or will they be allowed to plan their new schools and curricula to meet their own peculiar needs? To those who have watched the progress of education since the days of the little red schoolhouse, the answer is obvious.

States have taken over an increasingly large measure of control over our schools and have not stopped yet. Let's not let the federal government get a foot in the door, too. After all, the best controls are those in the hands of the local school districts, with other agencies serving only in an advisory capacity.

Let's get back to the old-fashioned idea of local districts paying their own way almost entirely and retaining greater control over their programs.

Courts Should Have Right To Lift Licenses Of Drivers Of Crime Cars

An Allegheny County Common Pleas Court judge has come up with an idea which should have the fullest consideration of those who make our laws.

Judge Henry Ellenbogen declared in a recent speech that the courts should have the right to suspend or revoke the licenses of drivers who use autos in committing a crime. The auto, he said, has become an important tool of today's criminals.

"The holdup artist, bank robber, burglar, housebreaker, kidnaper, the man who drags a woman into a car, all depend on autos for a quick getaway. After the crime, tearing through city streets and down highways, these assorted hoodlums endanger the lives of motorists and pedestrians alike."

As the law now stands, only the state secretary of revenue has the right to suspend or revoke licenses, and that only for one year. Such actions are based on violations of the motor code and ignore the misuse of autos by criminals.

Judge Ellenbogen suggests that the courts be given the right to order lifting of the licenses of lawbreakers where the evidence clearly shows that the auto was used as a tool in commission of a crime.

Surely that suggestion merits consideration by the Legislature now in session. We could help to make our highways safer, and provide an additional deterrent to crime, by applying this penalty.

George Sokolsky Says...

Senator Clark's Bill For Niagara Power In Conflict With New York State Laws

Undoubtedly the largest power project in the world is the complex on both sides of the St. Lawrence River and the utilization of the Niagara. On the American side, this enormous task is being administered and operated by the Power Authority of the State of New York, of which Robert Moses is chairman. This authority will shortly require $600,000,000 of new financing for Niagara, bond issues sold to the public, as this is to be a self-supporting enterprise.

A bill has been introduced in the United States Senate by Pennsylvania's freshman Senator, Joseph S. Clark, Jr., granting a license to the Power Authority of New York for Niagara's development under conditions which are workable. Of this bill, Robert Moses said in a telegram to a Buffalo newspaper:

"I was never consulted by Senator Clark of Pennsylvania nor were the officers and members of the staff of this authority. We never heard of Senator Clark's activities in this connection until we learned he was introducing the original Lehman bill without the amendments necessary to make it workable and with a flamboyant publicity release exhibiting incredible ignorance of the Niagara Frontier power problem."

Why a Pennsylvania Senator who has never been associated with either the Niagara or St. Lawrence projects should suddenly emerge as the sponsor of a

New York State bill can only be explained on the basis that Gov. Averell Harriman, favoring an extremist position regarding public power, turned to the Liberal Party, the Americans for Democratic Action (A.D.A.) and western cooperatives for assistance. According to Moses, the Clark bill is in conflict with New York State laws and would immediately be attacked in the courts, thus delaying any possibility of private financing.

One of the problems faced is the utilization of power. The authority maintains that it can develop enough power to sell to the municipal plants, cooperative, rural electrification associations within economical transmission distance in New York State and even in Pennsylvania and Ohio while also selling power to existing industries and new industries which can be brought to the Niagara Frontier. The organized building trades support the program of the Power Authority because it will increase work opportunities, but public power advisers to Governor Harriman do not seem interested. I quote from a letter signed by Martin T. Lacey, president of the Central Trades Labor Council of Greater New York:

"... Refusal to consider the importance of industry will merely lead to the recession that is inevitable under the philosophy of those opposing the Reynolds and similar contracts. All this ideological hogwash about low-cost power without jobs and industry is economic foolishness."

The power authority, a non-profit organization created by the state, seeks to encourage such enterprises as Reynolds Metals and others to locate in northern New York so that it can sell its power to them. The authority is operated in a businesslike manner and what it has to sell is cheap power to whoever wants to buy it.

It will generate roughly 750,000 kilowatts and it needs customers for that load. The Aluminum Corporation of America has been in that area for half a century, is the largest employer of labor and the biggest taxpayer in St. Lawrence County.

The real danger is that the public power fanatics, confusing the issue altogether, could develop a situation, particularly after a rock-slide in June 1956 destroyed an important Schoellkopf privately-owned power plant, whereby the manufacturer would be forced to move elsewhere. Waterpower is only more advantageous than coal-power when it is cheaper and the sites are equally suitable.

Despite the fact that New York State is highly industrialized, the northern part of the state is under-developed. The real difficulty with this operation is that the Power Authority faces doctrinaire politics. For instance, the public power advocates believe that increased use of power by domestic consumers is indicative of prosperity. This is only true when those same domestic consumers have jobs and the best way to make jobs is to encourage new industries to come into an area.

What is being done about the St. Lawrence and Niagara is of importance because it could become a model for other parts of the country. The utilization of a Power Authority, publicly created but privately-financed and working on a non-profit basis, has worked successfully in the New York area for many years.

Letters For Special Delivery.

"All departments of government and all groups of people must join in the common effort for budget reductions. We must seek first the full co-operation of the public generally in limiting demands requiring heavy expenditures. The public and the Congress must be educated to work for this." — Secretary Humphrey. Dear Mr. Secretary: Well, you are calling for the biggest education program on earth. The public has been taught for a quarter of a century to believe the sky is the limit. John Q. Citizen has developed a built-in copper-wired conception of life under the slogans "It's only money," and "If having trouble making both ends meet do your worrying in a bigger auto."

It is the same as teaching a man on the flying trapeze to work all his life without a net and then suddenly saying, "Look, you can get hurt if you go on like this with nothing below to catch you." Public co-operation? Why, Mr. Humphrey, don't you know you can travel all over America without finding a handful of folks bothered by deficits? Don't you know that the public acts like it believed "a rainy day" had been made unconstitutional and that a "nest egg" was something only grandpa thought a good idea?

Just how do you propose to get public co-operation in returning to an attitude of horse sense? What co-operation do you expect from John Q. Citizen as he rolls by in the auto he doesn't own from the house he can't afford, to the luxury resort beyond his means, over superduper highways which put city, state, nation and himself in a deeper hole?

Even with a magnifying glass it is hard to find a city or state chief who isn't talking in billions and showing no pain. Asked the question, "Whom do you blame?" you replied, "I criticize everybody from the public straight through to myself. We have not been firm enough." I name you Mr. Candor

THEY HAVE A POINT

A Business Of Your Own

Professor Kriebel's Goo Works Magic On Metals

Hundreds of manufacturers in the electronic, automotive, and appliance industries are re-examining the way they use screws, nuts and bolts to hold together their products. The cause is a retired chemistry professor, Dr. Vernon Kriebel, seventy-one, of Hartford, and a new sealant called Loctite, and a new sealant called Loctite is a petroleum-base product, and sells.

Loctite is a petroleum-base plastic that remains a thin, clear liquid until placed between two metal surfaces; then it becomes a solid that locks the metals together. A drop of Loctite applied to the threads of nuts and bolts, machine screws, and set screws fastens them so securely that no vibration shakes them loose, yet they can be unfastened with ordinary tools.

Professor Kriebel has been selling his compound for less than six months but he already includes among his regular customers General Electric, American Bosch Arma, Scovill Manufacturing, Ronson Electric Shaver, and Silex Co., and he has sold experimental quantities to General Motors, I.B.M., and Ford.

Kriebel discovered Loctite five years ago when he was experimenting in the chemistry laboratory at Trinity College with resins that had hardening properties.

He recalls, "By Jove, I came across a compound with very peculiar properties; when I put it between metals, by golly, things really happened!" He realized he had a valuable adhesive, and since he was approaching retirement at age seventy he decided to perfect the compound so he would have something to do when he retired.

In June 1953, he retired as a teacher and began his career as a businessman. He had formed American Sealants Co. in 1953, early in 1955 he hired a sales manager, and in the last half of 1955 Kriebel went on the road, calling on former students who had become manufacturing executives and leaving samples of Loctite for them to test.

By the end of 1955 Kriebel had spent about $20,000 on his invention, and early in 1956 he set out to raise capital. He was told no one would invest in such a risky venture but he easily sold ten-year, five percent convertible notes until he had raised $100,000.

Last spring he persuaded his son, Robert, a chemical engineer by training, to quit his $35,000-a-year job at G.E. to work with him. Overhead is minute; since Professor Kriebel had raised the money to build and equip Trinity's chemistry laboratory the college lets him use part of the building as his office and laboratory. Labor? Chemistry students do the work for $1.50 per hour.

Loctite has been on sale only since July (1956 sales: about $20,000), but recently inquiries have been coming in at the rate of 200 a week, and a sales force is being built up to handle the business. Professor Kriebel expects that 1957 sales will be over $250,000. (C. Time Inc.)

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

A dignified gentleman was sauntering down a fine residential street in St. Louis attired in his Sunday best when a dilapidated tramp darted out of a side lane and demanded a quarter to "buy breakfast."

for 1957. But how about more firmness, like you have been fighting to curb "Shoot the works" as a national slogan but if you haven't been firm enough about it, how can you criticize Mr. and Mrs. America? They take their cue from the top, and there hasn't been any all-out firmness on top since the hobble skirt and near-beer.

You say that we may get a "depression that will curl our hair" if we don't get thrifty. Be firm, Mister, and don't wait to be the fellow who didn't go all-out for doing in an exclusive neighborhood like this? Catching sight of a young policeman nearby, he demanded, "Where could a man buy a breakfast for twenty-five cents in this district?"

The policeman eyed him stonily, then dismissed him with, "Get on with you, mister. The likes of you has no call to be looking for such a breakfast!"

In Milwaukee, a 5-year-old lass beat her mother to the ringing telephone one morning, called out a bright "hello!"; then lapsed, frowning, into a prolonged silence. At length, her mother demanded, "Well, what is it?"

"I don't know what it is," admitted the daughter, handing her mother the receiver, "but it sure is talking!"

About 10 per cent of the national income is spent in the United States each year for the purchase and operation of automobiles.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Strauss Reported On Skids With Oilman As Successor

Washington, Feb. 6 — Congressional authorities are excitedly buzzing over the most significant report yet that long-controversial Atomic Chairman Lewis Strauss is on the way out.

Reason so much importance is being attached to this inside word is the impressive business executive who is mentioned in connection with it.

He is Robert E. Wilson, board chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana.

In the past there have been other reports that Strauss was headed for replacement. It's an open secret this has been urged by both Republican and Democratic congressional leaders. Strauss has been at loggerheads with key members of the Joint Atomic Committee for most of his term as Atomic Commission chairman.

But this is the first time a backstage tip that he is departing has been accompanied with the name of his reputed successor.

Adding further weight to this exceptional report are two other factors: (1) Intimations that Wilson is Strauss' personal selection to succeed him; (2) the outbreak of a new bitter clash between Strauss and Commissioner Thomas Murray, lone remaining Democrat on the AEC.

They have differed on a number of major atomic policies, most of them of a classified nature. Their latest row is in that category. It is possible to report, however, the issue is of such moment that the Joint Committee held a special meeting to consider it, and then voted unanimously to study the matter further.

The motion to do that was made by the ranking Republican Representative—W. Sterling Cole, N. Y.

Later, Representative James Patterson, Conn., another Republican Committee member, told colleagues, "I don't see how the Commission can get along without Murray. He is invaluable."

The New York engineer's term expires June 30. His reappointment has not been favored by Strauss.

Wilson, a chemical engineer, has had a long research career. After service in World War I, he joined Standard of Indiana in 1919, as assistant research director, and was made board chairman in 1945. Wilson is also a director of the Chase National Bank, N. Y., and First National Bank, Chicago. He is trustee of a number of leading scientific institutions and organizations, including Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the National Academy of Sciences, and Carnegie Institution.

Close-up view — President Eisenhower uses his knife and fork in the European manner.

That's what Senator Karl Mundt (R. S. D.) is writing friends on the basis of first-hand observation. He is telling them he made it his business to carefully observe the President's eating procedure when he recently lunched with Republican senators.

According to Mundt, the President's method is more efficient than American "knife-fork usage."

Following are the South Dakota Senator's unusual comments on this matter: "When the President lunched with us in the Capitol, I was seated just two places from him on his right. I noticed that he uses the continental, or English, style of eating his meat; that is, he cuts it with the knife held in his right hand and lifts it to his mouth with the fork held in his left hand instead of switching his fork from left to right hand as most right-handed Americans do."

"In eating potatoes or vegetables, the President uses his fork in the right hand throughout. Admittedly, the European habit of knife-fork usage is more logical and efficient, but by some strange tradition, few Americans have adopted this pattern of table procedure."

Mundt does not indicate whether he favors adoption of the "more logical and efficient" European "knife-fork usage."

Flashes — A private report of a shooting encounter between elements of the Seventh U. S. forces is being checked by the Fleet and Red Chinese naval House Armed Services Committee. Members got this information from a Navy officer, who claims he took part in the clash. According to his account, it took place last month between Formosa and the Chinese mainland.

... Dr. Raymond Saulnier, new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, made a very favorable impression at his first appearance in that capacity before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee. Unlike his Republican and Democratic predecessors, Dr. Arthur Burns and Leon Keyserling, Saulnier spoke freely to the lawmakers and answered all their questions. GOP Burns and Democratic Keyserling were in the bad graces of the Committee because of reluctance to respond frankly to interrogation. ... The General Services Administration is asking Congress for $42,000,000 to air-condition a number of government offices in Washington. The GSA contends it would be cheaper to do that than to rent portable conditioners.

Here's the bomb THAT BROKE THE "low-price" lineup!

This big high-stepping Chieftain started a revolution with a carload of "firsts" and an eye-popping price tag!

The low-price field never looked like this before! The handsome husky you see right here has the boat still rocking... with more power, more wheelbase, more room—and more sheer pride of ownership—than ever before possible on a well-trained budget! Just look at what they're making room for now in the low-price lineup: a strapping 347 cu. in., 10 to 1 compression ratio Strato-Streak V-8... a whopping, road-hugging 122 inches of wheelbase and an all-new suspension system for a Level-Line Ride that's next best thing to a magic carpet! And this streamlined beauty takes on the field with more than six dozen "firsts", all proved by 100,000 of the roughest, toughest test miles a group of facts-minded engineers could devise! If this sounds like a wonderful buy—it certainly is! Our advice is to stop dreaming and price it! At a cost less than a lot of the low-price jobs, this newcomer is making big-time buyers out of former "all-three" owners!

Local Dairy To Improve Facilities

AN OFFICIAL of the Lehigh Valley Dairy informed the East Stroudsburg Borough Council Tuesday night it is planning a $100,000 project to double its present facilities in the borough.

Clair Smith said the improvements will include a refrigerator capable of holding 40,000 quarts of milk. Construction of two front doors on the N. Courtland St. side also are planned. They would be used by small trucks, while larger ones would use the Maple St. entrance.

Council granted the dairy's request to construct extra ramps over curbs at the plant site, with the proviso it will be responsible for any damage to the curbs.

Area Farmers Reminded Of Agreements

AGREEMENTS signed under the Soil Bank's 1957 Acreage Reserve program for corn will be entered into on a "first-come, first-served" basis, David H. Griffith, chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reminded farmers yesterday.

Allocations of funds for payments under commodity Acreage Reserve programs for Monroe County are for corn. Acreage Reserve payments will be in the form of negotiable certificates, redeemable in cash.

Producers on farms which have corn acreage allotments are eligible to take part in the 1957 corn Acreage Reserve program unless the allotment is a "new farm" allotment for 1957.

Applications Chairman Griffith explained that, at the time farmers file applications to participate in the program, they may put up to the maximum acreage in the Acreage Reserve. This maximum for corn is 20 acres or 30 per cent of the allotment whichever is larger. In no case, however, may this maximum exceed the farm acreage allotment.

Hansen Praises Boy Scouts In Kiwanis Club Address

"IT'S A WHOLE lot easier to build boys than to mend men," declared Dettlef A. Hansen, district Boy Scout official, in a speech before the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club yesterday.

The speaker, retiring district chairman of the Boy Scouts, is also district attorney of Monroe County.

Yesterday's club program was in observance of Boy Scout Week, which extends from Feb. 6 to 12. The program chairman was Daniel Miller, district scout executive.

Hansen prefaced his remarks by listing three elements needed for a successful Boy Scout program: boys, manpower and money.

"We have the boys, some 2,400 of them of scouting age in the county," the speaker said, "and three out of every four want to be scouts. But there are only 700 boys in the three scout movements—Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts."

The main problem at present is in finding manpower enough to supervise all the scout units that should be functioning, Hansen declared. He urged the Kiwanians who are called on to serve as scouters or in other capacities to consider the matter seriously and to accept if they feel they can contribute their time and talents to the scout movement.

The boys want and need the program, Hansen asserted, and they should have proper guidance in finding worthwhile things to do. Such activities keep boys out of trouble and help cut down juvenile delinquency, he observed.

The speaker said the Community Chests contribute to the Boy Scouts as one of its 12 member agencies. Support also comes from other sources which, in the case of Monroe County, include 11 churches, three service clubs and one fire company.

A number of den mothers attended the meeting and answered questions put to them by Kiwanians. The den mothers were Mrs. Myrtilla Zacharias and Mrs. Madlyn Shepps, Pack 81, East Stroudsburg Methodist; Mrs. Walter Bryfogle and Mrs. Bernice Kulp, Pack 92, Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian; Mrs. Evelyn Boushell, Pack 97, Grace Lutheran, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Helen Gravel and Mrs. Marian Stick, Pack 89, Pocono Mountains Rotary Club, Canadensis, and Mrs. Esther Scott, Pack 80, Shawnee Presbyterian.

Jr. Women Prepare For Spring Work

The Junior Woman's Club on Tuesday night joined Mrs. Harold Eaton in a pictorial trip on the "Mission to Japan." The Eaton went to Japan to help set up churches in the rural and small village areas of Japan, with the village of Tajima, population 18,000, as their particular field.

The colored slides showed the food, homes, inn, public baths of the village. The festivals, paper ornaments, scenes from an amateur play, the visit of the Prince to Tajima were shown along with the scenery, living quarters, native dances and flower arrangements.

The Woman's Club of Tajima had paved the way for them, Mrs. Eaton reported, and told of the club's efforts to improve diet and living conditions.

Mrs. Richard MacDonald presided at the business meeting. Mrs. William Morgan, welfare chairman, requested members to turn in stamps for wounded veterans and cookies for the county home. Mrs. James Sheeley announced she still needed 44 more five by five inch knitted squares for the afghan the club is making.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Families who find their suppers being served a trifle later every night needn't blame the cook but the season. It's the crepuscular light that fools her.

It's amazing to discover by what subtle influences our habits are set. I doubt if any of us think, consciously, to ourselves: "The daylight has now waned to a certain candle-power and I must start the potatoes for supper." But we automatically react in just that way.

Last month at this time, the sun set at 4:48 p. m., and yesterday it set at 5:24. The change came so gradually that you scarcely noticed it—until suddenly you noticed the clock and no preparations even started for supper.

Ordinarily the waning light would have broken through your pre-occupation with finishing the raw, completing the chapter, writing on to the end of a story; and almost automatically you'd have gone to the kitchen.

This lengthening daylight seems to set up sort of a chemical change in your emotions as well as your actions. Maybe that's why all of a sudden we get impatient with winter when we're right in the midst of it, and anxious for spring before there's any hope.

We know how to make a little money go far and fashion-right!

HE MEANT IT—In an interview on his 95th birthday yesterday, William J. Hamblin, told Daily Record social editor, Bobby Westbrook, "I've enjoyed every minute of it," and demonstrated why by his warm welcome to all the friends who came to the open house in his honor at the home of his son, Clinton Hamblin, East Stroudsburg.

William H. Hamblin, Former Co. Treasurer, 95 Yesterday

William J. Hamblin yesterday could look back on 95 years and say "I've enjoyed every minute of it" with conviction. "I've made money and lost money," he said, "and never let it bother me overnight. I think maybe that's the reason I've lived so long."

He has lived widely as well as long. Hamblin was born Feb. 6, 1862, in Paradise Township in a house that is still standing. His mother's family, the Bowmans were the first settlers in Paradise Township. His father, John Hamblin, was born in England and came to this country at the age of 16. Joe Jefferson was living in Paradise House, he recalled.

William was the oldest of nine children. "I learned to rock the cradle," he said yesterday with a smile.

He also learned to do lots of other things. He recalled vividly the time when he was nine years old and his uncle fixed up a hay-rig for him and after mowing the first row left him to mow the rest of the field by himself. "I stuck it out, too," he recalled proudly.

He also recalled helping his father to build a house right in the woods. He helped to cut the virgin timber, put the stumps, clear the land, dig the well and build the house.

"Father sowed the cleared land to rye, and I cradled it by hand," he remembered.

Of the nine children only William and his two brothers: Harry Hamblin, who recently retired from teaching, of Swiftwater, and Burton are still living.

William never took up teaching. Most of his life was devoted to farming. At one time he had a dairy farm with 30 registered Guernseys and a lively stable with 12 horses and rigs. He worked for Pocono Manor for nine years, driving their teams.

Hamblin also worked for a brief time as a traveling salesman out of New York City but found the irregular hours too much for comfort.

One of the highlights of his life was the period he served as County Treasurer for Monroe County, 1912 to 1916. It was in 1913 he recalled that the first hunting licenses were required in the state. "I did all the work of the treasurer's office myself," he said, "including the collection of the mercantile tax—and that was one awful job to collect, too."

Another time he recalls with pleasure is the year of 1950 when he traveled 25,000 miles with Claude Metzgar, then an officer in the Patriotic Order Sons of America. He himself was twice a POS of A delegate to the national conventions, once in Asheville, N. C., and once in Atlantic City.

The William Hamblins had eight children, including two sons who died in infancy. Five still survive: Earl, Anita Brown, Russell, Julia, and Clinton, with whom he makes his home on East Brown St., East Stroudsburg. He has five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

One of his grandchildren, Richard Hamblin, left yesterday to complete his tour of duty in Iceland. He left behind him his bride who is staying here to qualify for her citizenship papers. He has two grandchildren now in Alaska.

He himself feels his roots deep in Monroe County. "There was a time when I was county treasurer, when I knew just about everybody in the county," he said. "Now with so many people dying, and so many new people moving in, I don't know so many anymore."

However, many of his friends remember him and called yesterday to extend their congratulations on his birthday, and to share the warm welcome which still gives evidence of why he has been a successful politician, and the enthusiasm which makes his statement that he has "enjoyed every minute" of the 95 years carry conviction.

Day Care PTA Reviews New Pupil Skill

The new cooking project undertaken by the older girls in the Day Care Training Center was discussed at the meeting of the Day Care PTA this week in the classroom at the YMCA. Mrs. Camille Harvey and Miss Harriet Sebring, teachers, described the progress the girls were making in cooking. The parents will assist in the project by supplying some of the cooking supplies, it was decided.

Articles of wood, made by the boys of the center, were also on display. The students are making articles to be placed for sale in a special booth at the Circus Bazaar planned for March 30 by the Junior Woman's Club for the benefit of the Day Care Center.

Plans were made for a birthday party to be held at the center on Valentine's Day.

Two new student teachers from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College have been donating their time in helping the children at the school. It was announced. The parents gave a vote of appreciation to these new students and the others who have been serving faithfully through the whole year.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Being a woman, I suppose I'm a bit self-centered as Valentine's Day approaches. Oh, I heartily endorse the idea of saying, "I love you, you wonderful man" with a gift for husband or boy friend, but somehow I can't wax enthusiastic about neckties, shirts, and memo pads for the office desk. Not, at least, when there are such eye-catching, feminine articles around as satin, heart-shaped boxes of candy . . . lacy handkerchiefs . . . lavish cosmetics . . . and sentimentally-styled jewels.

As a matter of fact, it's all I can do these days to walk past the Valentine table set up by Bea Gorgy right inside our front door. Bea is no help in getting me past either . . . she was only too happy the other day to nab me for a guided tour of her entire department, and to set my pen scribbling page after page in my notebook.

That table is really lovely, holding countless items—all inexpensive—that any woman would welcome from her Valentine. The truth of it is, the more feminine the woman, the more she'll cherish all the pretty little accessories assembled there. One thing I noticed is that Bea's approach to a Valentine is scentsible. Right at the very heart of the display is a cellophane package containing TWO spray dispensers of Lavender Mist for 3.00. This particular fragrance is delightful when used in bureau drawers and closets, and imparts a fresh cleanliness to the air when simply sprayed into a room.

Another fragrant idea is the cup and saucer filled with sachet. Long after the sweet-smelling potpourri has faded, the pretty chinaware will remain on a knick knack shelf as a treasured reminder of someone who offered affection on Valentine's Day. These are only 1.00.

There are also pretty red satin heart-shaped sachets packaged in plastic, to delight the girl or woman who keeps her dresser drawers as meticulously attractive as she keeps her person. And, for closets, Bea has some choice satin clothes hangers, fluffy, puffy and colorful. Those with tiny satin sachets attached are priced at 2.50 for two, and come in wonderful shades of blue or cerise. (The cerise isn't a true cerise, however—it's just more of a "Good-to-be-alive-rose.") Four similar hangers minus the sachets are priced at 2.98.

Another of Bea's Valentine suggestions that particularly appeals to me as I begin my annual annoyance with winter wear, is the trio of scatter pins boxed together in cellophane flower boxes. These pins are made of artificial overs in a veritable shower of springtime colors. Singly, they are a perfect size for the neckline or lapel of a child's dress or coat. In clusters, or strategically scattered, they are lovely for any woman . . . and the price per box is just 1.00.

Hankies too go to the head (rather than the nose, we hope) this Valentine's Day. For little girls, Bea has 25c handkerchiefs with dog, cat, or child design, trimmed in rhinestones if you please! Ladies' hankies, gay with hearts and luxurious with lace, are priced at 25c, 50c, and 1.00.

For the traveler there are folding jewel cases, not much larger than an eyeglass case, with compartments for earrings, pins, and the like. They're beautiful, being fashioned of satin, or pastel broadweaves with silver and gilt threads. At 1.00 a pair, Bea has a new shipment of Comfies, those adorable stretch slippers in pink, blue, gold, powder blue, or white with lavish gilt and bead trim.

Oh, Heart of Mine, why should you worry so?—to paraphrase an old sonnet. Anywhere you look there's a wonderful gift suggestion, and I'd cherish any one of them . . . particularly if it bears a WYCKOFF label!

ESSTC Wrestlers Suffer Third Setback Of Campaign, 17-11

Decision Rests On Final Match

EAST Stroudsburg State Teachers College wrestlers lost a thrilling chance to better their .500 record at the hands of Bloomsburg STC yesterday at the local campus, as the host team finished on the short end of a 17-14 score.

Entering the final match, the Warriors were behind 14-11 when the "Huskies" heavyweight, Jack Hilburn, won a decision from the Warriors' Bruce Hayne.

The decision of the final match between the heavyweights was the deciding factor of the day. A pin on the part of the Warriors in the final match would have made the score 15-14 giving the Ockershausen met, a 3-2 record for the season thus far. A decision for ESSTC would have made the contest end in a draw.

Coach George Ockershausen, who also coaches baseball and football at the local college, was without the services of Dick Crickeberger, 125-pound and Don Graver, 130-pound in yesterday's match. ESSTC may enter the state tournament at Lock Haven on Feb. 22-23.

East Stroudsburg's season has included wins over Elizabethtown, and West Chester and losses to Wilkes, Millersville and Bloomsburg.

Individual matches and results in yesterday's contest were the following:

125—Dick Dappa, Bloomsburg, pinned Pat Reilly, East Stroudsburg in two minutes and 22 seconds of the third period.
126—Dick Rimple, Bloomsburg, won a decision over Gus Basso, East Stroudsburg, 10-0.
137—Bill Dehler, East Stroudsburg, defeated Gerald Ellingham, Bloomsburg, 5-1.
147—Artie Roper, East Stroudsburg, won by forfeit over Bill Calderwood, Bloomsburg.
157—George O'Connell, Bloomsburg, defeated Jim Orlando, East Stroudsburg, 4-0.
167—Hubby Bohm, Bloomsburg, defeated Bob Zaranton, East Stroudsburg, 6-1.
177—Mike LaPorta, East Stroudsburg, defeated Frank Frisch, Bloomsburg, 4-3.
Heavyweight—Jack Hilburn, Bloomsburg, decision over Bruce Hayne, E.S.T.

U.S. Sled Crashes Into Snow Wall

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 6 (AP)—An American bobsled team ploughed through a snow wall and skidded crazily to a halt when its steering gear failed on a trial run today.

The driver, Dick Severino of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and his three companions bounced off the sled drenched with snow and water, but unhurt.

"Part of the wall collapsed at the end of our mile run," Severino explained later. "We sank into snow, the steering collapsed and the runners skidded and jammed. But all we got was drenched skins."

Undamaged

The bullet-nosed sled also was undamaged, although it wound up in a pile of melting snow.

The other three members of the crew, training for the world four-man bobsled championships Saturday and Sunday, were Bob Stein of Trenton, N. J.; Spike Briggs of Binghamton, N. Y.; and Edmond Nelson of Paris, Tex.

The accident was due to a mid-winter thaw, worst in 29 years here, which has left the once-frightening fast run a stretch of mush.

Lowest Score May Be Needed

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 6 (AP)—The lowest score of the year may be needed to win the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tournament starting tomorrow.

Harvey Raynor, tournament supervisor, for the Professional Golfers Assn., said he wouldn't be surprised if the all-time pro record of 60 for a single round is equaled before the title is decided late Sunday.

Tough

This is an event in which four days of par golf won't win a dime.

Williams Signs $100,000 Contract

BOSTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Ted Williams, displaying the enthusiasm and confidence of a youngster, predicted another great season with the Boston Red Sox today after signing a one-year contract continuing him as baseball's highest paid player.

The slugger signed for his 16th season with the Red Sox for about $100,000—the same he has been drawing for several years—in an hour-long meeting with General Manager Joe Cronin.

No Cut

"There was no cut—let's get that straightened out," Ted told writers emphatically to spike rumors which cropped up over his inability to play a full schedule.

Williams, who in the past has declined to disclose personal goals for a season, forecast "a damn good year" and said "I will do my very best to help the club."

"If I don't drive in a hundred runs, hit 25 or 30 homers and bat .330 or .340, I will be damn disappointed," he said. "If I can't I'll see the writing on the wall. But I'm sure I can do it."

Ted, who will be 39 in August, refused to look beyond this year when asked how many more seasons he felt he could play.

"If someone asked me three years ago if I thought I'd be signing in '57 I would have bet them no," he said.

"I love the game," he said in turning off a big smile. "I also need the money. I know I've been criticized for saying that but I think many of the boys play for money."

As usual, the Sox refused to disclose the actual amount Williams will be paid for the season, but Cronin said "let's say he's doing very well."

Williams, one of the game's most temperamental stars during his great career, indicated that he has had a change of mind and might like to stay in baseball after his playing days.

"After my playing days are over I will do everything possible to help the game," he said. "Other than that I want to fish my damn time in any place I want."

"Put it this way. I would stay in the game if I'm wanted. You feel at times, to hell with it. Then as you get older you start realizing there isn't a whole lot of things you know better than baseball."

Braves Set New Season Ducat Mark

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, with a new all-time record for season ticket sales already set, have guaranteed themselves a 1957 home attendance of at least 858,744 two months before opening day.

Ticket Director William Eberly announced today that 11,927 season tickets have been sold. This is five more than the previous record set in 1955.

There may be more to come. Several colleges still are grading the midterms — which determine player eligibility in the second semester drive for conference titles and post-season tournament berths.

The small colleges have their problems, too. Lemoyne lost Bob Hollenback, a 5-10 playmaker.

Move To Streamline Olympic Games Draws Mixed Reaction

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—A reported move to streamline the Olympic Games and put a greater premium on Gold Medals drew a mixed reaction today from the executive director of the U. S. Olympic Committee.

"We are not in favor of further restricting the number of participants—we are almost down to the bone now," said J. Lyman Bingham, "but we do feel we can reach a fairer basis for evaluating Gold Medals."

Sources

High Olympic sources in West Germany, who declined to be identified, said the International Olympic Committee is considering complete reorganization of the games at its meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland, in June.

Points reported under consideration:

Reduction of the number of competitors (which now reach approximately 11,000).

Scratching of cycling and soccer football unless the two sports can come more in line with amateur regulations.

Reassessing the Gold Medal situation, cutting down the number given for individual gymnastic exercises. This is the area in which Russia picked up enough medals and unofficial points to beat out the United States for the team championship.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Stengelism, as voiced by the old master, Casey himself.

On Yogi Berra—Well, I tell you now, I got four men who can hit for distance, and they can run. My catcher can run if he wants to. The trouble is he gets to first base and he gets tired, wants to talk to somebody, get the news. He knows what's going on. He can tell you what's happening from the top of this here Skibo Tower to Yankee Stadium. I don't know how he gets it. I see him in the locker room sitting all alone, dressed in the upper part of his long winter underwear. But he knows everything that's going on. If he don't try to promote too many golf tournaments, we'll have a catcher this year.

On Don Larsen—"Who would I say is my No. 2 pitcher? I'd have to say Larsen. I said the same thing early last year and the next morning he was up at 5 o'clock." (Referring to Larsen's unscheduled meeting with a telephone pole at St. Petersburg.)

Right Field

On right field—"Is it safe to say Hank Bauer will play right field? Well, I'll tell you, somebody's got to beat out Gil McDougald at shortstop."

On other clubs—"Everywhere I go people tell me you better look out for that Detroit club or it will give you a good whacking over. Now the Red Sox, I tell you two years ago they were good, but they fell off last year. If Williams reports in good condition they will have an outfield which is hard to beat. And Baltimore is going to win some ball games. He (Paul Richards) likes his pitching staff, commented a good deal on it. They moved up to sixth last year. The question is they move up ahead of the other five clubs."

On Bill Skowron at first base—"There was a time I let the others know I didn't want him to go after them foul balls. But he worked on them and finally he was going after them and getting them. I don't say he's as good as that Brooklyn feller, Gil Hodges. He's an artist, even if being a rightfielder he has to play the position backwards. It don't make no difference to him."

Own Idea

On third base—"Tell me who's a better third baseman in the league, either league, than Andy Carey. I know he fell off in hitting last year, changed his stance 78 times. But two years ago he hit 306. Nothing wrong with him. I tell you there ain't many good third basemen. Best I've seen is that Bill Cox of Brooklyn. A ball comes at him and he looks like he's scared to death, but he gets it and throws out the man."

On Kerby Farrell, new Cleveland manager—"I understand he comes up with his own ideas. Good ones, too. Yeh, I gave him his mashed nose. We was practicing indoors. I was knocking ground balls to him, and you know my power. Boom, I disfigured him."

On football players—"A lot of these big strong fellers playing football would make good baseball players if they'd put a baseball in their hand and make them play with it when they were little. We'd have some big first basemen."

On shortstops—"For 12 years Phil Rizzuto was our shortstop. He beat out everybody every year. So we had 12 years to get shortstops."

On Enos Slaughter—"He has that spirit and disposition he had with the Cardinals. If there's anything against him it's his age. He's a good pinch hitter, a good man to have around. Don't tell me that Jackie Robinson hit (in the World Series) was a pop fly. It went whish. You all know what Slaughter can do."

Red Sox Option Hurler To Texas

BOSTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Frank Baumann, a young southpaw signed by the Boston Red Sox for a $100,000 bonus in 1952, today was optioned on a 24-hour recall basis to Oklahoma City in the Texas League.

Baumann, whose signed contract was received by the Red Sox Tuesday, nursed a sore arm at his home most of last season. He appeared in seven games for Boston and then one for Albany in the Eastern League before quitting for the year.

Boston General Manager Joe Cronin said Baumann, considered as good as Herb Score in 1953 before entering the Army, was optioned to Oklahoma City so that he can train "without pressure."

BALTIMORE, Feb. 6 (AP)—Brooks Robinson, 19, a third baseman, has signed a 1957 contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

Lopano, Freeman, Joella, Farleigh and Raph were appointed to a committee which will head a drive for members. An intensive campaign will be opened immediately in a bid to enlarge on the organization.

Plans were made to again place entries in the Bi-State and State Belt Babe Ruth Baseball Leagues. The previous entry in the local Little League, it was indicated, will be sponsored by the Lions Club this season. However, the Athletic Association made arrangements to tender its Little League team of 1956 a testimonial banquet. The fete is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 18, at the Bangor House.

Sponsoring of a square dance in the near future was discussed. Promotion of a Summer recreation program in the community also was considered and will be given additional attention at subsequent meetings. The next business session was announced for next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., again at the Bangor House.

Returns May Come Before Tax Deadline

Editor's Note—This article is the first of an income tax series that will appear periodically in the Daily Record until April 15, deadline for filing income tax returns.

By William O. Yarn
AP Newsfeatures

THIS IS THE time of year when Uncle Sam is ready to receive greetings from you in the form of your income tax return, along with the money if you owe any tax.

On the other hand, if you have overpaid your tax, you're in line to get a refund check soon after you file your return. The sooner you file, the sooner you can expect that refund, if you have one coming.

If you haven't collected the figures on how much you earned, together with details on possible deductions you may take, now is a good time to start.

You can fill out your income tax return now and send it in as soon as your employer (or employers, if you worked for more than one) provides you with his record of how much he paid you and how much taxes he deducted from your pay during 1956. He will give you these figures on Form W-2.

If you work for salary or wages, you must attach this Form W-2 to your return when you send it in. If you are self-employed, you don't have to wait. You can file as soon as you wish, using your own records for your income and how much you already have paid on your estimated tax for 1956.

Monday

The tax deadline, April 15, comes on Monday this year. You have until midnight that night to mail your return to your district director's office. You can get this address from the instructions that come with your tax forms or from someone in your post office or bank.

Everyone who had income of $600 or more in 1956 must file a return, regardless of whether any tax is due. However, if you are 65 years of age or older you do not have to file a return unless your gross income was at least $1,200.

If your income was below those minimums, you should file to obtain a refund of any tax withheld by your employer.

This series of articles is designed primarily to aid the vast group of taxpayers who file and settle with the government for the amount of tax due on salary or wages they earned during the year. Between 65 and 70 per cent of those filing fall into this group.

Your district director's office will be glad to assist you in making out your return. If your returns are complicated this would be advisable if you aren't sure of the steps. This is especially advisable for those with income involving capital gains and losses, real estate transactions, retirement income from several sources and large amounts of dividends and interest.

There have been no major changes in the tax law since your last return. This also is true of the tax forms. The only exception, which will be explained, has to do with Form 1040A and gives taxpayers an option to compute their own tax.

Basic

Basically, in filing your return, there is one simple process. That is to determine the total or gross amount of your income, then reduce this to the amount on which you must pay tax or ask a refund.

There are certain deductions, exemptions and credits to which you are entitled. There also are some things you can exclude from your income. All of these help to whittle down the amount on which you must pay tax and can save you money.

This series of articles is aimed to help you locate and apply the deductions you may make.

The revenue service estimates close to 60 million individual tax returns will be filed this year. More than 40 million are expected to file on the simpler forms of returns which these articles will discuss.

Next: Choosing the form.

Plans Made For Troop

BANGOR—Final plans for the organization of a Boy Scout troop sponsored by the Salem Evangelical-United Brethren Church were made Tuesday at a meeting of representatives of that church and scout officials.

The Rev. A. M. Herman pastor of the church, received a certificate for having completed a course of scouting study for leadership from Daniel Miller, Stroudsburg, Boy Scout Field Executive, who also had charge of the meeting.

Local leaders present at the meeting were Alesio Bartolacci and Michael Fisher, district leaders. It was announced that the meeting to organize the troop committee would be held at the church on Feb. 20 under the direction of Fisher.

Landscaping Big Issue In Improving Value Of Home

HOME LANDSCAPING: Right now's a fine time to be thinking about fixing up around your home. If you have a new home, built on level property, you should figure on spending at least 10 percent of the cost of the house for designing and landscaping the property. Perhaps this figure sounds a bit high, but if you stretch your budget over a five-year period it's a small amount to pay for enhancing the value of your home and for the pleasure derived by the whole family.

Besides increasing the value of your property, good landscaping can help cut down on your fuel bill in winter, and make your home cooler in summer. Tests at California showed that properly located shade trees reduced summer room temperatures as much as 20 degrees. A trailer located on ground without any planting had a room temperature of 104 degrees, and remained above 75 degrees for 11 and one-half hours. A trailer located beneath trees had a temperature of 84 degrees and remained above 75 for only five hours.

Besides eliminating that "attic furnace" trees can also cut down on your winter fuel bill by acting as a windbreak. It takes lot more to heat your home when it's windy so it's a good idea to plant some trees in the right place. Tests prove trees can cut your fuel bill as much as 30 percent.

Gloxinias Again: Ever try to propagate a gloxinia by splitting the tuber? It's a good way to increase your stock. Gloxinia tubers resemble potatoes; that is, they have "eyes". Cut the tubers in such a way as to get an eye on each piece. The cuts are dusted with captan and repotted in a loose soil mixture. We find plants from split tubers will grow as fast as plants from whole tubers, although they may not be as large. A good soil mixture for gloxinias consists of one-half peat moss, one-quarter rich garden loam and one-quarter sand or vermiculite.

Question Box

By George Abraham
K.E. of East Stroudsburg:
"We had a nice crop of apples last fall, but something happened to them after we stored them away in the cellar. The apples, mostly Northern Spies, appeared all right on the outside, but when they were peeled you could see small brown spots or specks of flesh. The fruit didn't look too good but we ate them. What caused this? Something wrong in the soil?"

Sounds like Bitter Pit disease, also called Stippen and "Baldwin Spot." This was a problem in some areas last year and no one knows the exact cause. It does seem to be associated with growing conditions before the apples were picked. Fruits that are free of pitting at time of harvest may develop as much as 80 percent or more of pitted fruit after you store it. Fruits from healthy trees are more likely to have "pits" than are fruits from less vigorous trees. Also trees that are heavily fed with nitrogen are more susceptible to pitting. Fruits picked in an immature condition are more likely to bitter pit in storage than fruits left to mature on the tree.

We have no suggestions for controlling this. You might try placing waxed shredded paper in among the apples as it may delay the appearance of bitter pit in storage.

Mrs. T.E. of East Bangor:
"I heard about a new red Bartlett pear which is much sweeter than the old standard yellow Bartlett. How is it for a home garden?"

We haven't tested the new red Bartlett, but have asked nurserymen who have fruited it and they tell us it is ideal for the home garden. This is a new bud sport of Bartlett, having all the desirable qualities, plus an attractive red color and 10% more sugar. The red color is only on the surface and under the skin it's almost pure white. The fruit is ideal for canning or fresh use. We are planting one of the red Bartletts this spring to see how it works out for the home garden. With pears, ordinarily two varieties are needed for cross pollination. The only combination that is cross-incompatible is Seckel and Bartlett. Therefore, a third variety is needed with these two. The Red Bartlett needs two others also, for pollination.

Civil Defense Begins Study Of Evacuation For Allentown

A PRELIMINARY study of evacuation plans involving the city of Allentown was launched Tuesday at a Pocono-Lehigh Civil Defense Federation meeting held in the Lehigh County Civil Defense Headquarters at 1201 Summer Ave., Allentown. The session was attended by state and county Civil Defense officials.

Principal speaker was Capt. Walter C. Wickert of the Allentown police department who had made an exhaustive study of the problems of civilian evacuation of the Allentown area in case of military or natural disaster.

Capt. Wickert illustrated his talk by means of a large and carefully prepared map of the city of Allentown detailing an exploratory study of the traffic arteries through which must flow the thousands of civilians who theoretically may be asked to vacate their homes within the city, presumably in the case of radio active fallout or nuclear devastation.

The study by Wickert detailed only the traffic problems involved and did not deal with the multitude of problems involving classification, registration, mass care, police and medical aspects of Civil Defense.

Wickert completed the study only after an exhaustive investigation had been made of the evacuation plans of other large sized cities such as Denver, Cleveland, etc. He explained that evacuation would, it was assumed, have to be made to the west and follow plans dependent on fallout and prevailing winds. An interesting discussion followed.

The meeting was presided over by Norman H. Flores, Lehigh County Civil Defense Director who is also president of the Pocono-Lehigh Civil Defense Federation which includes the counties of Lehigh, Northampton, Monroe and Carbon.

Jack Anderson, Eastern Area Civil Defense Director, graphically outlined some of the problems involved in such a gigantic undertaking, pointing out that the State Council of Civil Defense evacuation plans had been worked out as they involved clusters of cities and counties within critical target areas.

Anderson also stated that plans involving evacuation in a number of areas, including Easton, would involve a reciprocal study by adjoining states. Pilot studies of this type he said are now underway.

Several members of the Federation who had attended courses and seminars on evacuation at the Federal Civil Defense College in Battle Creek, Michigan, reported on the findings resulting in recent investigations of test evacuations.

Wickert received a unanimous vote of thanks for his fine work and a motion was made and unanimously carried to have a committee of county and city Civil Defense personnel continue the study and to make periodic reports to the Four-County Federation.

President Flores announced that the next Pocono-Lehigh Civil Defense Federation meeting would be held at Split Rock Lodge in March.

Present at the meeting in addition to the speaker were: Anderson, Col. Edw. H. Feather, State Council of Civil Defense; Col. John H. Brubaker, Northampton County Director; Nelson W. Norwood, Carbon County Director; Paul M. Crown, Executive Director for Monroe County; Norman H. Flores, Lehigh County Director; Norman Epstein, Ralph E. Mooney, Carbon County, and Robert A. Heiny.

Sweet, smooth and sassy—that's Chevrolet all over. Above, you're looking at the Bel Air Sport Coupe.

Clings to the road like a stripe of paint!

The '57 Chevy can give lessons on taking curves and holding the road to just about any car going. Few cars at any price are so beautifully balanced and so smooth, sure and solid in action.

A car has to have a special kind of build and balance to keep curves under control. And nobody outdoes Chevrolet in that department! It "corners" with all the solid assurance of an honest-to-goodness sports car. Chevy doesn't throw its weight around on turns because it carries its pounds in the right places.

And if the road should turn upward, Chevy can take care of that nicely, too—with up to 245 h.p.*

Come on in and take a turn at the wheel of a new Chevrolet.

Dingmans Ferry Cub Scouts Discuss Planets, Asteroids

DINGMANS FERRY—On Wednesday, Jan. 30 Cub Scout Pack 75 had its bi-monthly Pack meeting at the Dingmans Ferry Consolidated School. Cub Master William Reser welcomed the boys and their parents, and assistant Cub Master Carl Bensley announced the program which followed the Cub Scout theme for the month: "Eye in the Sky".

Following the opening exercises, Mrs. Hazel Irvine, Den Mother, explained the theme for the month and the work accomplished by the boys.

Extemporaneous discussions of the planets and asteroids were given by Zachary Irwin and Ronald Shepherd. Jimmy Albright read a description of the Milky Way and Bryce Sebring read the Legend of Orion.

Cub Master William Reser presented Bob Cat Pins to two new cubs, Billy Hoffman and Bryce Sebring, and the program closed with the cubs singing the Cub Scout Good-Night song.

After the program the boys reviewed their achievements with their Cub Master in anticipation of next month's awards, while their parents examined the drawings of various constellations which the Cubs had made during the month. The meeting ended with refreshments of cake and hot chocolate which were served in the school lunch room by the mothers of the cub scouts.

Progressive Home Builders Bring People, Nature Close

TODAY'S PROGRESSIVE HOME builder is bringing people and nature closer together, with chain reaction.

He saves all the trees on the building site that he can. He keeps the existing contours of the land where possible. He builds a house that "belongs" to the lot.

Chemistry Combines With Nature

CHEMISTRY and nature have been combined by millwork manufacturers to make modern wood windows and exterior doors tough enough to resist even the harshest weather.

The sturdy ponderosa pine now is treated with a water-repellent preservative to minimize warping, swelling and shrinking.

Treatment by standards of the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, has no effect on the appearance of the window or door and does not affect the ability of the wood to take paint or varnish. The preservative is used on all ponderosa pine double-hung windows qualifying for the American Wood Window Institute's Seal of Approval.

Supply Door For Basement

IT ACTUALLY costs little or nothing to provide for a separate basement entrance to the outdoors when you are building a home, says the Institute of Home Designers. It points out that the cost of the door in the foundation wall is offset by the savings on the material used in the foundation. The cost of holding outside steps is low when a home is under construction, it says. The steps can be covered with an economical steel basement door, available at building supply dealers.

Popular For Cabinets

THE UNIFORM grain and smooth surface of ponderosa pine makes this wood popular for kitchen cabinets. The wood is especially attractive when stained. Pine doors and windows of ponderosa pine also are often stained to take advantage of the natural beauty of wood in room decoration.

Elderly Home Owners

ABOUT 68 percent of U.S. non-farm people over 65 years old own their own homes.

Moisture Rough On Furniture

IF YOUR wooden lawn furniture needs repainting frequently, chances are moisture is working into the wood somewhere. Peeling would indicate this.

When moisture gets into painted wood, it evaporates through the surface, taking the paint with it, and one of the most frequent points of entry is the bottom of a chair leg. Quite often this isn't painted at all.

Dry

So when you repaint a lawn chair, first make sure that the wood is perfectly dry. Then, when you do paint it, give the bottoms of the legs two or three coats of spar varnish. This will seal the wood where it comes in contact with the ground.

An even better procedure is to fit rubber cups over the leg bottoms.

The guiding principle is to protect every part of the chair from rain and dampness. This includes the underside corners, joints and around nailheads.

Renovation Of Table

AN EASY renovation project for an old coffee table or bridge table is to transform it into a smart modern looking game table with rubber tile. The resilient tile is easy to cut with a flooring knife into small squares needed for a checkerboard.

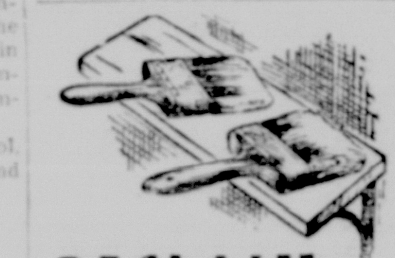

Lay the tiles on the table top in the pattern desired, then remove and spread surface with rubber tile adhesive and lay tiles in place. Allow to dry 24 hours before using. The rubber top will not be marred by cigarette burns and is easy to keep clean with a damp cloth.

Tip For Cedar Closet

WHEN INSTALLING a cedar closet, it pays to cover the ceiling and door areas. The additional red cedar closet lining improves moth protection and gives the closet a finished look.

Electric Use Increases

WIDER USE of electrical appliances in the home has boosted the use of electricity more than 400 percent in the last 10 years.

Stucco Lasts Many Years As Outside Covering For Home Providing Timely Repairs Are Made

STUCCO, as everybody knows, is a coat of cement-mortar applied to the outside walls of a house to make a weatherproof covering. It can be applied over rough masonry or over stucco wire lath which can be nailed to wood sheathing.

A properly applied stucco will last and last and last but sometimes cracks appear here and there.

The cracks are often just in the top coat of the stucco—usually the complete covering consists of three coats. Cracks of this type aren't much to worry about. They are not much bigger than a hair and are easily filled with paint when and if the stucco wall is painted.

Structural cracks—those that run right through the thickness of the stucco—are something else again. They allow moisture to get in back of the stucco and cause all sorts of trouble including damp interior walls. They should be patched immediately.

First, use an old screwdriver or cold chisel and a hammer to cut out the crack so that it forms an inverted V with the inside of the crack being wider than the outside. Dust out any loose stucco and wet down the sides of the crack with plenty of water.

For patching you may either use a ready-mixed stucco patching compound or a mixture of one part Portland cement and three parts sand. The ready-mixed patching compound can be purchased in various colors which helps if the wall has been previously painted. The patching mix should be packed thoroughly into the seam and then it should be kept covered and damp for a week or so to insure that it cures properly.

Mildew, Moths Dangerous To Safe Closet Storage

MILDEW AND MOTHS are the chief dangers to safe closet storage. Persons who are confronted by either of these conditions can take steps to eliminate them.

Since mildew is a result of too much moisture, be sure that water is not entering a closet through a leaky roof or damaged water pipe. These repairs should be made promptly, for such conditions may cause serious damage to the home.

If the foregoing are not creating the moisture problem, try ventilating the closet. An alternative measure is to place hygroscopic salts in the closet.

Wood Sealers Widely Used

WOOD SEALERS which are being more and more widely used both inside and outside the house are synthetic resins in liquid form which penetrate the wood and close up the pores. They can be had either clear or in colors. The soft portions of the wood absorb the sealer, thus making it easier to stain, paint or finish clear.

Some sealers contain stains so both operations can be performed with a single coat. Others produce a lovely blond effect which brings out the sunny color of hemlock and the soft reds of western red cedar.

These sealers are particularly good for built-ins and paneling.

Meaning Of Term

WHEN ROOFERS speak of "210-pound asphalt shingles," they mean three-tab square-but strip shingles which customarily weigh 210 pounds per square when five inches of each shingle tab is exposed as the shingles are laid on the roof deck. A "square" of roofing is the amount needed to cover 100 square feet of roof area.

Home Ownership Up

HOME ownership has increased five per cent during the past year, according to new surveys. About 60 percent of Americans own their own homes today, compared to 55 percent in 1955. Increase was greatest in the north central states and lowest in the northeast.

Eisenhower Throws Light On Intentions

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Eisenhower made three statements at his news conference Wednesday which throw light on how he intends to administer his "middle of the road" policy during his second term.

He said that if business and labor fail to adopt voluntary practices to stop inflation, the government will have to step in.

He said that if private industry did not maintain a sufficient flow of oil to meet the European crisis, the government may have to step in. With regard to oil, he said he didn't like to see the government disturb the economy in this way.

Policy
He said one thing the Republican party would have to do as it faced the next presidential election is to maintain a sound fiscal policy.

None of these attitudes are new. They just happened to have been lumped together at this time. The statement about inflation is the second of the week from an important Republican figure. Former President Herbert Hoover addressed himself to the same problem Monday.

Indeed, ever since the Korean War, the Federal Reserve Bank has been stepping into that problem, through its alternate softening and tightening of money controls. But the price indexes have been climbing steadily upward after each slight halt.

One of the administration's problems is that a good many people like inflation.

There are a good many, too, who object to tight money—meaning high interest—when they want to start projects for the ultimate good of the economy—new plants, or even schools.

It is not the inflation itself that is feared, but the ultimate depression it might produce. The President has said he is prepared to step into that, too, with government spending, tax relief and what not.

Someone once referred to the President as a New Dealer in the wrong party.

Compromiser
He appears to consider himself a compromiser between what the government must do when the free economy gets off base somewhere, and what some of the New Dealers wanted to do largely as a matter of ideology.

He is willing to adopt centralized government controls in specific cases, on a temporary basis, while continuing to hope for development of private enterprise's own ability to eliminate such necessities.

In the oil case he is running up against a double-barrelled dilemma, in that it involves not only the willingness and ability of the companies to produce the oil and organize transport, but also various state restrictions designed to preserve reserves and keep up prices.

The President has been trying to get the states to resume responsibilities in many fields which were yielded to the federal government during the last big depression. But this is a case where there is a conflict between state policies and national foreign policy, one that is difficult to resolve.
